1. [REDACTED] had provided [REDACTED] with a list of equipment today which indicates that seven complete sets of ALQ-28 equipment modified to the XN-3 configuration are now in hand except for one minor component. Our present requirements are for equipment for three [REDACTED] aircraft and two [REDACTED] aircraft. This means that one set of equipment is then available for a bench set and another set of equipment less the one component is available as a spare. I have taken the position that this is adequate backup for this equipment.

2. I asked whether or not we had received the Navy depot spares for ALQ-28 peculiar equipment. I presume these spares would be available to us since we now own all of the ALQ-28's in the world. There are approximately four complete sets of equipment which have not been modified to the XN-3 configuration, and I propose that we take physical possession of these and hold them as backup spares, perhaps for cannibalization.
